Created by the legislature, BOCHES generates partnerships between school districts and their nearest community college to provide educational services that aren't specifically being provided by either of them.

As a Western Wyoming Community College Outreach Campus, we administered the western Outreach program in Rawlins and Baggs. Depending on the course, students can choose from either on-site or online options for continuing their education.

That allows us to provide:

- Adult basic Education
- College-level classes
- Community enrichment opportunities for all ages.
- Adult educational classes.
- Medical training
- Vocational education classes for all Carbon County School District # 1 students, including Automotive, Construction, Nursing, Welding and Woodworking.
